

Philip qualified as a solicitor in 1988 and as a higher rights court advocate in 1999. He has served on the Mental Health Tribunal Panel representing patients detained under the Mental Health Act. During his time as Hospital Manager at the old Hackney Hospital, he was part of a team of volunteers overseeing the detention of mental health patients.

During his career he worked as a university lecturer in Ukraine teaching English and English Law and has also worked in Russia.

Philip has worked with Reeves for more than twenty years and is extremely proud to represent the firm's clients at police stations, magistrate's courts, and crown courts daily.