

Daniel specialises in Criminal law. Daniel's practise regularly sees him defending in the Crown Court, as Leading Junior and Junior alone, on offences such as attempted murder, rape and serious sexual assaults, GBH and violent disorder, immigration offences, drugs conspiracies and offences of dishonesty.

In addition to his Crown Court work, Daniel has a breadth of experience in dealing with cases at the Court of Appeal.

Daniel began his career as a Barrister working as in-house Counsel with a well-established East London Solicitors, regularly representing their clients in all Courts. As a result, he has a unique insight into what is expected of Counsel, by a professional client.
