

Rachel has been working as a criminal defence solicitor for over 25 years. She has a wealth of experience working in London and Kent, defending clients charged with anything from a low value shoplifting to serious drugs and violent offences.

Rachel has a compassionate approach to all clients and has particular expertise in representing the vulnerable. She is committed to always getting the best possible result for her clients.

Rachel is an accredited duty solicitor in both the Courts and police stations.